This privacy notice explains how we use any personal information we collect about you.

What information do we collect about you?

We collect information about you when you engage us for estate planning / legal services. This information will relate to your personal and financial circumstances. It may also include special categories of personal data such as data about your health, if this is necessary for the provision of our services.

We may also collect information when you voluntarily complete client surveys or provide feedback to us.

Information about connected individuals

We may need to gather personal information about your close family members and dependants in order to provide our service to you effectively. In such cases it will be your responsibility to ensure that you have the consent of the people concerned to pass their information on to us.

Why do we need to collect and use your personal data?

There are a number of lawful bases on which organisations can use (or process) your personal data.

The primary legal basis that we intend to use for the processing of your data is for the performance of a contract with you. The information that we collect about you is essential for us to be able to carry out the services that you require from us effectively. Without collecting your personal data, we would also be unable to fulfil our legal obligations.

If we use your information for a reason other than to complete your contract, such as direct marketing, then we generally rely on one of the following lawful bases:

- where we have the consent of the data subject

- where it is necessary for the purposes of the legitimate interests pursued by us or a third party, except where such interests are overridden by the interests or fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject.

We may rely on Legitimate Interests when we may need to contact you, in regards to changes in legislation, in order to ensure that your estate planning / legal services remain effective and for the purpose of sending direct marketing messages. This allows us to contact you by post and electronic means about our products and services. Accordingly, we will rely on legitimate interest for some of our processing of personal data, in line with GDPR Article 6(1)(f).

Legitimate interests means the interests of our company in conducting and managing our business, to enable us to give you the best services and products. For example, we have an interest in making sure our marketing is relevant for you, so we may process your information to send you marketing that is tailored to your interests.

Before doing this, we ensure that we consider and balance any potential impact on you (both positive and negative), and your rights under data protection laws with our business objectives. Our legitimate business interests do not automatically override your interests. We will not use your personal data for activities where our interests are overridden by the impact on you (unless we have your consent) or are otherwise, required or permitted by law.

We will not share your information for marketing purposes with other companies.

You are of course, free to opt out of receiving these messages at any time. We will include clear information about how to do so in all of our messages.

Where special category data is required we will obtain yours or your attorneys' explicit consent in order to collect and process this information.

Who might we share your information with?

In order to deliver our services to you effectively we may send your details to third parties such as those that we engage for professional compliance, accountancy or legal services.

Where it is necessary to send your personal data to third parties to comply with the contract we confirm that that these third parties will have confirmed their compliance with the GDPR. Where it is necessary for your personal data to be forwarded to a third party we will use appropriate security measures to protect your personal data in transit.

To fulfil our obligations in respect of prevention of money-laundering and other financial crime we may send your details to third party agencies for identity verification purposes.

How long do we keep hold of your information?

During the course of our relationship with you we will retain personal data which is necessary to provide services to you. We will take all reasonable steps to keep your personal data up to date throughout our relationship.

We reserve the right to retain data for as long as is required thereafter where we believe it is in our legitimate interests to do so.

You have the right to request deletion of your personal data. We will comply with this request, subject to the restrictions of our regulatory obligations and legitimate interests as noted above.

How can I access the information you hold about me?

Your rights under the Data Protection Act are as follows:

1. The right to be informed
2. The right of access
3. The right to rectification
4. The right to erasure
5. The right to restrict processing
6. The right to data portability
7. The right to object
8. Rights in relation to automated decision making and profiling

Please note that you have the right to request the above, however, when we receive your request we may object to your request if we do not agree with it. We will however inform you if the request has been granted or not.

You have the right to request a copy of the information that we hold about you. If you would like a copy of some or all of your personal information please email our Data Protection Officer on paulcadde@cadde.co.uk or write to us using the contact details noted below. You will be required to complete a Subject Access Request form and provide us with proof of your identity in order for us to comply with your request and depending on the work involved a charge might be made.

We have an obligation to ensure that your personal information is accurate and up to date. Please ask us to correct or remove any information that you think is incorrect.
